

THE NEWLANDS BILL BECAME LAW TODAY

IS THE HOPE OF THOSE INTERESTED IN AVERTING RAILWAY STRIKE.

TRAINMEN IN MEETING

Measure Rushed Through Both Houses And to President For His Signature.

New York, July 15.—Presidents Lee and Garretson of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors respectively returned to New York from Washington today to meet with the so-called committee of 100 of the unions and report on the armistice with the eastern railroads reached yesterday whereby the wage dispute is to be arbitrated under the Newlands bill. The committee will remain in session until the arbitration is concluded.

An announcement from the railroad managers is expected today. The situation now seems to be cleared up as regards all roads except the Erie. That road reported yesterday from the conference committee on the ground that it could afford to meet no wage increase no matter how arbitrated. When the railroads agreed yesterday to proceed under the Newlands law, the Erie said its position was unchanged. Just what action would be taken in the Erie case had not been made clear this morning. Previously the union leaders had said they would not deal with any road individually.

The status of the Erie railroad may be the first question demanding solution when proceedings are started under the proposed Newlands law looking to the arbitration of the demands of the conductors and trainmen against the eastern railroads. Erie officials again told that they refuse to be a party to any arbitration and the union leaders contend that no road can be dealt with individually.

This might deadlock the proceedings unless one or other compromise were reached.

Neither the union leaders nor the conference committee of railroad managers dared discuss the Erie case today although both sides held meetings to talk over the situation agreed upon at Washington yesterday.

V. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Engine men, met with a group of the union today to draw up a set of specifications in which it is alleged that the railroads have not in all respects lived up to the terms of the recent awards in the firemen's case. This will be submitted to a conference committee tomorrow.

Newlands Bill.

Washington, July 15.—The next step in paving the way for a peaceful settlement of the wage dispute between the eastern railroads and their trainmen was in prospect today when the house assembled to pass the Newlands bill amending the Erdman act to provide arbitration in a manner satisfactory to the roads and the men, and the senate to consider the changes which it has been agreed the house was to make in the bill.

All sides expected the Newlands bill would be out of congress and the come law by night. President Wilson has said he would sign the measure immediately.

Truce Meanwhile.

Meanwhile there is a truce between the two sides. The men, both men have agreed to submit their differences to arbitration under the terms that will be provided. With the passage of a new law the selection of a government commissioner of arbitration is the next step. He is to be appointed by the president and will hold office seven years. Among those whose names are being discussed for the place are Martin A. Knapp, now presiding judge of the commerce court, and Charles C. Neil, former commissioner of labor both of whom have been identified with the settlement of wage disputes under the old Erdman act, and William Lea Chambers, who also has served as a mediator in the law. His last service was in the recent dispute between the eastern road and their firemen.

Two Amendments.

Two amendments were determined by the house judiciary committee. The senate was expected to accept them without delay.

One came to make impossible any construction that would authorize a strike by an employer or otherwise to compel an employer to work. The other was to provide details for filing the awards with district courts.

In its perfected form the new law would furnish machinery expected to open up the course of arbitration and federal mediation.

Passes Houses.

The Newlands bill revising the Erdman law to provide arbitration of wage disputes in a manner satisfactory to railroads and their men passed the house yesterday without a roll call and was hurried to the senate, which was waiting to pass it for President Wilson's signature.

The senate passed the Newlands bill without a roll call and it is expected to be transmitted to the White House where President Wilson was ready to sign it.

The Conference.

How yesterday's White House conference was brought about, because known today when officials there said that Mrs. J. Borden Harriman of the new industrial commission had informed them that a strike was imminent unless an agreement on a board of mediation could be secured.

As a result of her message both President Wilson and Secretary Wilson were communicated with by Secretary Tumulty and the conference was arranged with the help of Seth Low, president of the National Civic Federation.

Attached to Park.

Herman Beuge was brought before Judge Field this morning charged with intoxication, to which charge he pleaded guilty. Complaint was made by one of the police officers that he persisted in sleeping in the park although told to leave. The case was adjourned two weeks. Beuge promised to stop drinking and not mistake the park for a Pullman car.

Save Switching Fee.

By using the traction engine employed to heat oil in the tank cars to move the latter, the city saves the expense of the usual switching fee.

MAY NAME ANDERSON COMMONS' SUCCESSOR

Former Actuary in Insurance Department Slated For Industrial Commission—Gen. Boardman Will Not Resign.

Madison, Wis., July 15.—Rumor connects the name of Lewis A. Anderson, former actuary for the Wisconsin insurance department, with the post of member of the state industrial commission to succeed John R. Commons. Mr. Anderson is one of the best known insurance actuaries in the country and is said to be qualified by experience to handle workmen's compensation problems.

Insure Kuolt's Raise.

In order legally to ensure the state banking commissioner a salary of $5,000 a year, Senator E. A. Kuoht introduced a bill today which makes the salary applicable to the appointment of the present commissioner, A. E. Kuoht. Two years ago the legislature passed a law fixing the salary of the banking commissioner at $5,000 annually and designating the term of office as five years. Originally Mr. Kuoht was appointed for two years and has just been re-appointed. Attorney General Owen has ruled that the original salary should have been for five years and that therefore the salary is $4,000, the same as it was two years ago when Mr. Kuoht accepted the office.

It is now proposed to put a curative bill through the legislature which will declare the intent of the act paying the commissioner of banking $5,000 annually for the present term.

What's in a Name?

Shakespeare wrote: "The choicest treasure mortal times afford is spotless reputation."

Whether we are in business or in a profession, whether we are large or small, if our success depends upon our dealings with the public, a fair and honest reputation is indeed a choice treasure.

We have no reputation is almost as undesirable as to have a bad one.

Sometimes an enterprising manufacturer arranges to distribute his product through an agent, who is a retail dealer. In this way two substantial reputations unite in a common cause. Each strengthens and fortifies the other.

The venerable bishop is well preserved and is seen almost daily on the streets of Orange. Despite his age he is as thoroughly interested in religious work, especially that pertaining to Methodism, as is the youngest churchman.

Bishop Bowman's career as a churchman and educator has been a most distinguished one. He was educated at Dickinson college and afterward taught there for several years. He then went to Williamsport, Pa., where he founded the Dickinson seminary, of which he was the first president. He was also president of the institution for ten years. He became president of the Indiana Asbury university in 1859, holding the post for thirteen years. He was chairman of the United States senate during the last two years of Lincoln's life.

THIRTEENTH ANNIVERSARY ZION CITY'S FOUNDING

Chicago, Ill., July 15.—Today was the thirteenth anniversary of the founding of Zion City by Dr. John Alexander Dowie. In the days of "Prophet" Dowie, the anniversary was always an occasion for celebration and rejoicing, but since the death of the leader there has come a mighty change over the condition of affairs spiritual and material in the little north shore suburb and today the thirteenth anniversary was allowed to pass unnoted. Internal dissensions appeared among the Dowies soon after Dowie's death, and the past few years what is left of the sect has divided into rival factions and has been engaged in a continuous fight for the political control of the town. But while the "spiritual" vitality of Zion City has been on the wane the material prosperity of the town has increased. Many of the industries founded by Dowie have since passed into the hands of outsiders and are said to have prospered.

EUROPEAN NATIONS TO DEMAND AN END OF WAR IN MEXICO?

One Power Calls Attention of United States to Chaotic Conditions Hinting at Concerted Foreign Action.

Washington, July 15.—Already one of the great European powers through its diplomatic representatives here called the attention of Secretary Bryan to the chaotic conditions in Mexico and the effect upon the welfare and safety of its citizens there with a polite inquiry as to what the United States proposes to do about it.

Whether the inquiry was part of a concerted movement on the part of European powers to bring the state department to a declaration of purpose toward Mexico did not develop today, reports from the City of Mexico, however, would appear to warrant that conclusion.

Until very recently President Wilson has been attacked by the rumors of outside influences being brought to bear to cause the United States to recognize the Huerta regime. It is beginning to be apparent now that there must be very soon a declaration of war on the part of the United States against the Huerta regime. It is beginning to be apparent now that there must be very soon a declaration of war on the part of the United States against the Huerta regime.

Refuses Information.

Secretary Bryan was asked today if any foreign power had made representations to him regarding the situation in Mexico. His reply was a flat declaration to discuss the situation in any way. The diplomatic circle here has its own ideas of which the inquiring one is, but in the absence of an announcement from the state department none of the diplomats will make any statement which could be quoted with authority.

That one power has made inquiry, however, is known positively. No official statement will be issued to discuss the situation in view of Secretary Bryan's refusal to talk about it.

Is Confirmed.

London, July 15.—The statement from Mexico City regarding representations made to their respective governments by the European diplomatic corps on the subject of the position taken by the United States toward Mexico is officially confirmed.

The British foreign office, however, declines to discuss the matter or to express any opinion on the ground that the subject is too delicate.

The lowest bid for the construction of a concrete bridge over Spring Brook on South Main street was that of W. C. Wier, a contractor of Chicago, at $3,389. The Board of Public Works did not announce acceptance of any bids this afternoon but voted to return the certified checks and proposals and all contractors except those who submitted the three lowest bids on each structure. There were nine bids on the Spring Brook bridge. Following are the names of the various bidders, their addresses, and bids on the two bridges.

W. C. Kierman & Co., Whitewater: Spring Brook, $3,289.

Gould Construction company, Davenport, Ia.: Milwaukee street complete, $35,600; without paying, $31,700; hand rail, $3; Spring Brook, $4,200.

The bond issue for the Milwaukee street bridge voted at the recent election was $38,000.

CONCERN WILL DEAL IN MOULDING SAND

Articles of organization of the Janesville Wisconsin Moulding Sand Company were filed today at the office of the registry clerk. The concern is capitalized at $25,000 and H. L. Maxfield, J. P. Pember and T. W. Nuzum are the incorporators.

The company is organized for the purpose of carrying on the business of digging, shipping and selling moulding sand, sharp sand, torpedo sand and crushed gravel, and manufacturing the same into brick, blocks and tile, according to the statement in the articles.

The moulding sand was discovered in large quantities on the Maxfield farm in the town of Janesville, four miles northwest of this city, some time ago, and the development company has been in process of formation for several months. Several of the adjoining farms have been purchased, and a side track and spur from the Northwestern line is being constructed.

GET LAST TWO CARS OF OIL PURCHASED

Two cars of asphaltic oil, the last of thirteen contracted for, were received by the city yesterday from the refineries at Coffeyville, Kansas. The oil will be applied to Terrace street and in completing the oiling of other streets where the work was begun, but has not been finished. The total amount received so far means in gallons, is 77,000. More oil may be purchased later in the season for application to the streets where the traffic is heaviest and a second car of excess material on the surface, and water-proof. Experience has demonstrated that by far the most satisfactory results are obtained when the oil is applied in the hottest weather and upon a surface absolutely dry to a depth of two or three inches. That applied in cool weather and to moist street surfaces does not last nearly as long.

Opinion as to the desirability of the heavy asphaltic oil over the lighter oil is in the mind of the city. South Second and South Third streets the results have been very satisfactory. The excess quantity of stone screenings at first produced some wash away. The rest has been rolled into the asphaltum making a smooth, resilient surface impervious to water and adding indefinitely to the life of the pavement. On Washington street, perhaps due to the fact of excess material on the surface, the heavy oil has not adhered as well, nor have the volatile constituents evaporated as quickly. With a little more time it may work in to as good a condition as it has on the other streets to which it was applied.

LETTER TESTIMONY CONTINUED TODAY

CHAIRMAN OVERMAN HAS CONFERENCE WITH WILSON ABOUT MULHALL.

Senator Reed introduces Letters Received by Mulhall Having Important Bearing on Trial.

Washington, July 15.—Before the senate lobby committee resumed taking testimony today Chairman Overman went to the White House to confer with President Wilson. It was said the conference had been arranged at the senator's request. He declined to say what he had discussed with the president.

Senator Reed started Mulhall's testimony on letters written in 1907 to the late James W. Van Cleave, as president of the National Association of Manufacturers. One from the late Vice President Sherman, then a member of the house, arranged for the meeting with Van Cleave and Mulhall in New York on July 20, 1907.

In a letter to Mr. Sherman on July 16, Mulhall wrote: "I have just returned from the west and feel that I have put the ball a rolling in Indiana so that it will help Mr. Watson to re-nomination."

Senator Reed read a letter to Mulhall from Dr. Langtry Crockett of Maine dated July 4, 1913, in part as follows:

"I have just read your confession in the New York World. I believe it all excepting your statement that you are doing it for the good of humanity. This humanity business of yours I cannot swallow. Whether you do any good or not time alone can tell; but you surely have kicked up a stink in this neck of the woods. Now I want to hear your story. Will you send it to me? Who was the attorney for good thing out of this for you surely have bedaubed yourself."

"On the whole the people down here believe it. I know it is true. Oliver Otis is clamouring for me to be taken to Washington and there be pumped dry. I am ready to go. I hope you are putting the knife into some of the pirates that did not like you. You and I know they were an ungrateful bunch."

"Now, don't back down. Stand by your colors. If you need me just call on me. I don't care if you sold my letters, but if you just gave them away it is mean of you. If you get enough out of it and need the price why all right. Anyway we will not quarrel."

Fred C. Schwedtmann, secretary to President Van Cleave, wrote Mulhall on August 9, 1907:

"The more some large things brewing in the air, the more I am convinced in our tariff campaign we have with us the majority of the republican leading congressmen and senators and men higher up than that, too."

Be Entered by Northwestern Railroad Company.

Another report of the intention of the Chicago and Northwestern system to extend its line into the great copper district of the northern part of the state into Houghton county, Michigan, has been received and it is now believed that the plan undertaken something ago by the railroad officials and afterwards abandoned, for making the extension will be taken up again.

Several months ago reports were current to the effect that the railroad company was figuring on making such an extension but refused to make public their plans. These reports were followed by the preliminary surveying by a crew of engineers. The proposed line was through Houghton county and directly into the rich copper country to which now there is no direct access.
Work was continued for some time but was finally abandoned but not before a right-of-way had been laid out for the greater part of the distance which the proposed line would traverse.

The business of the Northwestern in the copper country has been increasing steadily and it is estimated that there would be enough freight and passenger traffic to make a branch line a paying proposition. From the number of locomotives that have been sent up at the Janesville yards during the winter waiting for service at the ore districts would indicate a sufficient amount of business to make the venture profitable. At present, the Northwestern has branch lines extending to Munising and Ladoga and if the extension is built into Michigan Janesville will be one of the direct lines to Chicago although most of that traffic would be sent by way of Milwaukee.
Most of the freight for the copper points is now transferred at the shipping station causing an expensive delay.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Janesville, Wis., July 15, 1913.

Editor of the Gazette.

There is one industry in Janesville which Mr. Nichols has in his power to make a success or a failure, viz.
John C. Nichols Harness Mfg. Co.
The people of Janesville are interested in its success, why does he not give it his whole time and attention? If he is elected mayor he must according to the law give the office his whole attention and time.

If Mr. Nichols is the business man he claims to be and is capable of making a success of the Nichols Co., then it is in my opinion this business needs him worse than Janesville needs him.

There is another angle to this situation, viz. the stockholders do not rely upon Mr. Nichols making a success of the business and it is his duty to stick to his job.

Let us have an expression from these stockholders as to whether they fully value his services and ability or not. Possibly the business is so strong financially and so well organized and well established that it can get along without Mr. Nichols for a time. How about it?

I have heard several citizens ask for information as to the policy of the candidates from a moral, clean government standpoint. Why ask the question. Their supporters as they are lined up answer the question. Is questionably the better element, the kind that stand for a clean respectable city are with Mayor Fathers. The oppositely inclined are with Mr. Nichols.

There is a reason.
Mr. Nichols claims the present administration has hurt business. Of course it has hurt the disorderly saloon business and driven out houses of ill fame. Is this what hurts the Nichols' element? I claim that Mayor Fathers willfully hurt any other kind of business brands the man making the claim as one whose judgment is of little value.

Let us take a concrete case. Mayor Fathers favors a new bridge of the most modern kind. The voters at the polls also favored it by a large majority. Business men want it. Mr.
Nichols opposes it and why. Some are of the opinion that he and his advisors thought they could make political capital out of it. Think it over fellows.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT PLAY-GROUNDS

Over Two Thousand Children Attend Playgrounds Last Week

Two thousand five hundred and sixty-one children attended the playgrounds last week, clearly demonstrating that the play grounds have filled a long felt want of the city. According to the two directors,
Mr. Pinley at Jefferson school and Mr. Law at the Webster school, there were 220 games of volleyball played, 86 of basket ball and 112 games of baseball played to amuse the youngsters during the last week.

To create added interest in the work, match games between a team representing the two respective play grounds have been arranged as the children take active interest in all the branches of the sports. Saturdays the girls' volleyball team from the play grounds clashed at the Jefferson school courts and the west-siders trimmed their opponents two straight games. The Jefferson team was composed of Misses Allison, Porter, Dodge, Sennett, Carle and Simpson were no match for their more skillful opponents and at no time could they check the playing of the Webster school girls. A combination of Jefferson and Webster school girls were pitted against the Jefferson boys' team but proved to be no match for the boys' team.

The directors have scheduled a volley ball game between boys of the high school to be played at the Webster school play grounds tonight.
The work that has been accomplished at the two grounds deserves the support of all the citizens of the city as it has done a world of good in the short time that it has been inaugurated. The directors have entered into the work with a great deal of interest and have endeavored to create a spirit of fair play among the boys and girls who attend the grounds. Both Mr. Pinley and Law have gained the confidence of the youngsters and everything works in harmony.

Enthusiasm has marked the spirit that the youngsters have when at the grounds and it is expected that last week's large attendance will be surpassed during the coming week. New equipment is being gradually added to the grounds. A jumping standard has been erected at both grounds and at the Jefferson grounds the younger children found great amusement with a slide that Mr. Pinley added to the equipment. The volley ball courts prove to be the greatest interest to the children with the base ball court a close second.

The problem of keeping the children of the streets is a serious one and the play grounds bid fair to prove the best way to prevent the younger generation from absorbing the street habits. Good clean play that requires skill and strength is a necessity in a child's life and the Janesville children have a good advantage to obtain it.

As play grounds are likely to be always a part of civic betterment, to make a better appearance, and living condition in the cities, it is important that all the citizens should know of the work that the play grounds are accomplishing for the city. The grounds are not fully equipped as yet, but it is expected that more apparatus will be added in the near future.

BUSINESS OFFICE OPEN SATURDAY EVENING.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Scattered showers tonight, but Wednesday fair.

LEST WE FORGET.

With the eyes of the state as a whole upon them, the voters of Janesville will go to the polls on Tuesday, of next week, and vote either for a continuation of the present enforcement of the laws and ordinances in the cause of decency, or for a wide open town with all the emoluments that go with it. The present mayor has enforced the laws, and in consequence is opposed by the many who feel their personal privileges have been encroached upon.

What personal privileges? The right to maintain unlawful resorts? The right to sell liquor to minors, to permit young girls to become habitants of wine rooms, to violate the closing ordinances, to permit gambling? These are reasons for the present recall movement, and no matter what other issues are instilled into the present campaign, they are the fundamental principles that underlie the present attempt to oust Mayor Fathers.

Many are loud voiced in their opposition to the present administration. Talk of street improvement, talk of failure to purchase the water company, talk of this and that, but scratch beneath the surface and you will find that each and everyone has some personal grievance to revenge, some personal privilege, they believed inherent with themselves and their business, which has been taken from them by the enforcement of the laws, and the rigid enforcement at that, without fear or favor.

Opposed to this element are men and women who are fighting for their homes, for the cause of decency, for the retention in office of the man who made this possible—James A. Fathers. It is not a political fight in the fullest sense of the word; it is a battle being waged whether Janesville shall continue to be a clean, wholesome city or return to wide open conditions that long made it a disgrace, retarded progress and was a menace to the boys and girls growing up in such environments.

This is no time to quibble over technicalities. A spade should be called a spade, not a heart or a diamond. The recallists object to the fact that the ministers of the city, the men having the spiritual charge of the citizens, have injected themselves into the fight for decency. It is not to be surprised at. When Peter the Hermit, in the 11th century marched on foot through Europe, calling upon the various warring kings and princes to forget their personal differences and join the great crusade to regain the Holy Sepulchre from the infidel Turks, they heeded the call and under one flag, the Cross, sailed for the Holy Land to wage a holy war.

This is a holy war. A warfare waged in the cause of decency. A battle fought to retain the victory over indecency secured after many years of useless encounters, when the city was governed by the same old ring that again seeks to control civic affairs. It is not political. It is not religious. It is a contest between men seeking personal gain and citizens aligned for law and order. It is a contest in which every man and every woman in the city should have a most vital interest. It affects every home. It affects every parent. It affects every tax-payer, every manufacturer. It affects the good name of the city.

Janesville is at the parting of the ways. Defeat of the present administration means a step backward. A return to old conditions that had become so intolerable that a little over a year ago the citizens rose in their might and voted the old regime out of existence. A return to the wide open grog shop, the wine rooms, the unbridled license to the licentious, the lascivious and dissolute methods of handling civic affairs.

Endorsement of the present city government by re-electing Mayor Fathers, means a step forward in the cause of decency. It means protection for the home, protection for the boys and girls, the bridling of the unruly element, the protection of the retail liquor dealers who welcome the enforcement of the law, of the men and women of the city who stand for what is good and wholesome in life.

The issue is law or lawlessness, and upon this issue, and this issue alone, can the decision rest. Never has a similar campaign been waged in Janesville before and it is the duty of every citizen to voice his sentiments by voting on this important issue at the coming election. The opposition to the present order of affairs will be out in full force and will neglect no opportunity to bring about a change in affairs, and it rests with the voters whether they win or not.

If you are employing a man to handle your business, would you select one who has demonstrated himself unable to cope with conditions similar to those that will confront him should he enter your employ, or will you hire a tried and trusted man who has shown he is most capable and efficient? As in your private business so it should be in all civic matters. Take the best man you can secure for a public office of trust and reject the poorer timber.

It may be interesting to note in another column the new law relative to employment of persons sentenced to jail "at hard labor" has been made a reality rather than a joke as in the past. Perhaps it may have something to do with lessening the attendance at the county's boarding houses in the future.

Gatherings to discuss the present civic question in churches are loudly denounced by the recallists, but sessions in saloons are quite the thing and perfectly proper. A difference with a decided distinction as to the elements which seek to control civic affairs.

Janesville is more interested in the outcome of the election next Tuesday than in anything that has occurred here in years. It is up to the voters now and they are the final judges in the matter.

Wednesday afternoon the women of the city are to meet to discuss civic matters and it looks as though their views on the present complicated mayoralty fight might be most interesting.

It is a requirement of the state law that one recorder can sign but five papers for the purpose of swearing in voters who are not registered. It is worth remembering.

The legislature now plans to get through some time in August. It is hard on the employees and Madison hotel people.

Today is St. Swithin's festival and to the weather-wise it means a forecast of the weather we may expect for the next forty days.

The Diary of a Bonehead.
The good wife had a grand surprise for me this morning. She appeared in a weird creation, which she was pleased to style a hat. It looked like the rag end of a mis-spent life topped off with a rooster's tail that had been dyed pink.

"How do you like it?" she asked, beamingly. "I made it all myself out of some leavings that I found running about the house. The frame is an old 'Gates Ajar' which we had left from a funeral five years ago and the trimming didn't cost a cent."

Then I told her how I liked it. My guardian angel must have been taking a much needed nap at that moment.

"It looks to me," said I, "like an Oklahoma cornucopia. It makes more noise than a German band after an all-night session following a Schwabach picnic. It jars on the nerves and wears out the horses and the wagon while the horses and the wagon wear out the man who drives them."

"I did expect to," said she with a sort of a grin and determined look, "but feeling that you don't like it, I won't."

I went down town very well satisfied with myself. I had certainly put one break hat out of business. When I got home, the awakening came. My wife was wearing a bird of paradise creation which had enough expensive trimming to furnish hats for all of Solomon's wives. It had all of the breadth and reach of a grocery wagon umbrella and it towered into the air like the Woolworth building.

"You didn't like a one I made," said she, "so I do hope you will like this one."

The bill she handed me made a noise like $97.50.

K. K. NEWHOUSE DIES

WHILE AT HIS WORK

Member of County Board From Town of Clinton Drops Dead Very Suddenly Monday Afternoon.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Clinton, July 15.—K. K. Newhouse, chairman of the town board of the town of Clinton dropped dead Monday afternoon while at work building a small bridge on his farm near this village.

Mr. Newhouse was in town Monday morning to perfect plans for a fishing expedition with J. A. Hamilton, and appeared to be enjoying his usual good health.

He collapsed without warning and died almost immediately life was extinct when Dr. Thomas arrived.

Mr. Newhouse was an industrious man and was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances in this section of the county.

He was elected to the position of supervisor from the town of Clinton to succeed the late S. J. Jones, when the latter was named highway commissioner. He was twice re-elected to the office without opposition.

His work in his township and the county board has been thorough and laudable in every respect.

He leaves a wife and several children. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

County Clerk Howard W. Lee received word of the death this morning from the town of Clinton Clerk, L. M. Jacobson. Members of the board will be notified and it is probable that a meeting of the board will attend the funeral.

For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. When one hundred dollars for any case it will cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

TO THE PEOPLE OF JANESVILLE

Now that the smoke of that primary battle has cleared away and our candidate indorsed by the voters last Tuesday, we herewith respectfully beg to submit the reasons which has moved us to seek to recall Mr. Fathers from the office of mayor and ask you to give each charge specified herein a careful consideration as these charges stand in our opinion as an indictment against the public acts of our present administration.

We hold that Mayor Fathers has willfully neglected the interests of the public in carrying out the people's will in the matter of the Water Works, as expressed by the voters. Though this question has been voted upon by the people in April 1912, it was not until January 21, 1913, that the Mayor notified the railroad commission of such election and its results, and only when forced to do so by the uprising of the people which resulted in the circulation of the Recall petitions.

We hold that Mayor Fathers has betrayed the interests of the people when he secured the attorneys of the Water Company as his personal attorneys and is now not the proper person to act as the representative of the people when the question of taking over the Water Works will come before the courts. As a man cannot carry water on both shoulders, so neither can Mr. Fathers stand as the champion of the city when opposing the Water Company in the litigations into which the company will drag the city, when he confers with these attorneys upon his private political matters in the morning and fights them in the courts in the afternoon.

We hold that Mayor Fathers and his appointee city attorney, Mr. Dougherty, used gross unfairness in remitting the fine of well-to-do Mr. Finley convicted of selling liquor to two blind minors and we ask the voters to examine the records of the Municipal Court to verify this statement. The entry is in Mr. Dougherty's handwriting as the clerk of the court refused to make such entry.

We hold that Mayor Fathers showed wanton disregard of the wishes of a large number of property owners on Milwaukee Ave., by failing to grant the petition signed by 18 out of about 22 property owners who asked to have the street paved with brick, but at the behest of one of the principal owners of the Water Company ordered macadam laid instead.

We hold that Mayor Fathers is deliberately misleading the public by statements that the moral conditions of the city are clean today, when it is a common knowledge that there are gambling establishments now in operation and that houses of ill fame are in existence at the present time, and lewd women walking the streets nightly in greater numbers than ever before.

We hold that the real seat of government is not at the City Hall, but located on the Milwaukee street bridge, removed there by the invisible hand of a group of men representing the local public utilities, whose private interests come in daily conflict with the common interests of the people.

We hold that Mayor Fathers showed utter disregard of the wishes of the people of Janesville by not permitting them to decide the kind of bridge they wanted built on Milwaukee street,—whether steel or concrete.

We hold that Mayor Fathers has shown undue favoritism in the building of the Fourth Avenue bridge, in the construction of which the plans as approved by the old council called for the erection of a concrete railing along each side, but permitted the contractor to cut off one side in front of the Milwaukee Elevator Company, yet allowed full payment for it nevertheless. Now, we may ask, can he be trusted with the construction of a bridge, the cost of which will be $38,000 and with so many conflicting private interests involved in the final adoption of the plans?

We submit these findings against Mayor Fathers with the request that each of the above specifications be fully investigated and that upon verification, the voters turn out in such number on election day in protest, as will forever remove the hands of all holders of special privileges from the throats of the people.

Respectfully Submitted,
THE PERSONAL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE,

H. L. Maxfield, Chairman,
J. S. Smith, Secretary,

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

ONE OF the favorite precepts of all moralists is that one should compare one's lot with that of some less favored human being instead of with that of someone more fortunate than one's self.

Now that is surely a most excellent precept, but sometimes I find it very hard to follow. Don't you?

With the unerring human instinct for wanting what one hasn't got, my mind turns obstinately back to the lucky lady who has all the travel she wants, or to my fortunate friend whose father has recently given her a most beautiful home completely fitted up with the lovely appointments that every woman loves. Instead of contemplating my unfortunate neighbor who has just lost her husband, been reduced from comfort to poverty and been obliged to give up her beloved country home and live in two stuffy rooms.

Such is the perverseness of the human mind.

Now there is another way of encouraging one's self when one is inclined to be discouraged, which is somewhat similar to this, and yet to my mind not half so hard to follow.

And that is, when one is discouraged or dissatisfied, to look back at the very blackest time in one's own life and think how much happier one really is now than then.

A friend of mine who is having some very strenuous years with three turbulent little ones to bring up, said to me the other day, "Sometimes when the babies are all taking turns being sick, and the doctor's bills are appalling and I haven't had enough sleep for weeks, I get way down in the blues. And then I always think back to the time when I was working in the office and had nothing to look forward to except long years of work and a lonely old age, and I'm so thankful I'm not there that it makes me quite happy."

Another girl who had found her niche in the world's work, and even better than that, had found her mate awaiting her in that niche, was speaking of two years in which she was doing work which was unworthy of her, among people who were uncongenial.

"Doesn't it make you sad to look back over those wasted years?" I foolishly asked.

"Oh no," she answered, "they weren't wholly wasted. At least they gave me the value of contrast."

Wise, wise girl! to realize that the high lights in any picture are made possible by the shadows, and that the shadows in her life were not wasted since they made her present happiness more wonderful by contrast.

The darkest places in our lives will throw even the neutral tones into cheerful contrast if we will place them beside each other in our minds.

So look back when you are inclined to be discouraged and see if you cannot find a time when you had far more reason to be sad than you have today.

Of course, that may not be possible, but since there can be only one blackest time in each life, I think it's ninety-nine chances to one that it will

THE KITCHEN CABINET

WE ARE very apt to measure ourselves by our aspiration instead of our performance. But in truth, the conduct of our lives is the only proof of the sincerity of our hearts.

—George Elliot.

SAVORY DISHES.

A bean rarebit is not to be despised. Melt two tablespoonsful of butter, add a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of paprika, one-half a cup of milk, and a cup full of cold mashed baked beans. Stir until thoroughly heated, and add one-half cup of grated soft, mild cheese. As soon as the cheese is melted, serve on circular pieces of buttered toast. The chafing dish may be nicely used for this dish.

Mincied Chicken With Green Peppers.—Cover a green pepper with boiling water and cook for ten minutes, drain, remove the seeds and cut in narrow strips two inches long, using a pair of scissors. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and add one and a half tablespoonfuls of flour; stir until blended, then pour on two-thirds of a cup of the liquor in which the chicken was cooked. Bring to the boiling point, add a cup of diced chicken and the peppers; again boil, and serve on pieces of toasted bread.

Hashed Brown Potatoes.—Cut fat salt pork into cubes and fry out, remove the scraps and measure the fat, of which there should be two and a half tablespoonfuls for every cupful of potatoes. Add a cup of finely chopped cold boiled potatoes to the fat, season and cook three minutes, stirring constantly; then let stand to brown underneath. Fold the same as an omelet, turn into a hot platter and garnish with parsley.

If a little breakfast food is left over, especially cream of wheat or oatmeal, mold it in a small baking powder can, and when cold cut in slices, dip in crumbs and egg and brown in a small amount of fat in a hot frying pan.

Fried mush is a most delightful breakfast dish when served with maple syrup.

Fish Croquettes.—Separate the fish into flakes, add to one and a half cupfuls a half tablespoonful of lemon juice and a teaspoonful of chopped parsley. Melt two and a half tablespoonfuls of butter, add a third of a cupful of flour and stir until well blended; then pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, one cupful of milk. The wire whisk is a most useful utensil when stirring white sauce. Season, add the sauce to the fish and spread on a plate to cool. Shape, roll in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat.

EVENING GOWN OF
VIOLET CHARMEUSE

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a young married lady of seventeen; I married year before last. My husband lived with me year and nine months and then left me. Before we married he was so kind and good, I thought he loved me. After we married we lived lovely, I thought.

We lived with my mother until about a week before he left. Then we moved to ourselves. We lived together six days and he left. He slipped away one Sunday while I was at church. Before I went to church I tried to get him to go, but he said he was sick and would not let me stay home with him. That was about two months ago and I haven't even heard from him nor know where he is or what he left for. We never have even had a fuss or quarrel.

He left me with a baby nine months old and to take care of myself, but I have a mother and father and two sisters living and I get along all right except I worry over my husband leaving. Please advise me, LOUVENIA.

I went to a fortune teller and he told me he was in Atlanta, Ga., living in Happy Hollow and he said that his home was in Georgia. The fortune teller did not know him, I know. Would you write to him if you were me, or not?

I am a little in love with a man about forty-seven years old, but he says he is thirty-five. He is very kind to me. He asked me to marry him. Please advise me, LOUVENIA.

If you are even a little in love with another man you can hardly blame your husband for leaving you. It is very silly of you to think you are in love with this other man, he does not want to marry you at all, but just to have fun with you.

Ask the police to help you find your husband. Maybe something has happened to him.

Do not put any faith in the fortune teller. He does not know any

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
To Seed Cherries for Canning.—Use a common wire hair pin. It takes seed out nicely without bursting the cherry so much. A few hairpins may be kept especially for this purpose.

When embroidering net, chiffon tulle or any other thin material, baste paper beneath it. This gives a firmness to the material and the design will be much clearer when completed. Tear the paper away afterward.

Boiled hominy or rice should be substituted for potatoes sometimes if you wish to preserve the good health of your family.

If your alarm clock rings too loud, slip an elastic band around the bell to diminish the sound.

Household Hints.

The Table.
Tomato and Peanut Salad.—Pour boiling water over medium, well-shaped tomatoes. When the skin begins to wrinkle, plunge them into cold water. Remove the skins and set on ice to chill. Have ready a pint of roasted peanut meats. Pound until fine and mix with mayonnaise dressing. Pour this over the tomatoes and serve on lettuce leaves.

Watermelon Cake.—Three-fourths cup of green sugar and one rounded tablespoon of butter, one-third cup of milk, one egg well beaten, one cup of flour, one teaspoon of baking powder, half teaspoon extract.

One cup of red sugar, two rounded tablespoons of butter, two well-beaten eggs, half cup milk, one and one-half cups of flour, one heaping teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon extract, one cup of currants for seeds.

Mix in order given, then take half of the green, put in a well-greased round or oblong tin, so as to make a watermelon shape, then put all the red on the green and cover with the remainder of the green. When done and cooled, frost with boiling frosting made of one cup of green sugar, one-third cup boiling water; boil until it threads when taken up with a fork. Beat the white of one egg stiff, then pour the boiled syrup over it in a stream and when it begins to thicken spread over the cake. You can buy the sugar at the baking shop.

Lime Ice.—Use the juice of two lemons and dissolve in one table-spoon of sugar. Have glasses filled two-thirds full of shaved ice. Add the lime and sugar, and ornament with either mint or maraschino cherries. Serve with straw.

Grape Water.—Squeeze four pounds of grapes through a coarse cloth and add one-third cup of white sugar and one pint of water to the juice. Set on ice. Serve with crushed ice in glasses.

Dutch Current Bread.—Beat two eggs with half a teaspoonful of salt till they are very light, add a pound of flour, and then, very slowly, a third cup of milk, making a light batter. Add now three-quarters of a pound of currants, four ounces of chopped lemon peel, half a cup of butter, melted, and a cake of yeast dissolved in a little water. Let it raise one hour and then bake in a bread tin buttered and slightly sprinkled with flour, one hour in a moderate oven.

Cheese Fondue.—Place five or six eggs in a saucepan, mix in a third of their weight of grated parmesan cheese and half this quantity of butter and stir well over a slow fire. The eggs are set. Pour the mixture into a hot dish and serve at once with slices of toast, or have toast ready on a hot dish and pour the fondue over them.

This closely fitting evening gown is made of violet charmeuse. The draped bodice which forms the lower part of the blouse is cut in a point at the right side of the front, and beneath this point is a band of gold lace which forms the upper part of the blouse and sleeves. The skirt is wide at the left side and narrow at the right, simulating a skirt yoke at the left side of the back and joining at the center beneath a sash. A section of chiffon is draped over each shoulder and edged with lace, which at the right side form a scarf draped from the shoulder and ending in a tassel. The skirt is slit in front revealing an under flounce of gold lace.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

By FRANCIS JOYCE KENNEDY

"I met him today in the crowded streets. How many of our readers think of that little verse when they meet one less fortunate than they. That if we lend ever so little aid—to a person so situated we in reality give to God, for even a cup of water goes not without its reward."

A man sitting patiently playing an accordion may not be a sight to arouse great thoughts in one but it does—occasionally cause one to wonder concerning the life of the player.

So many of us are prone to think, "why don't he do better?" We might remember that some are more gifted than others, some receive talents, some receive one. It is well to be charitable when judging or commenting. After all we are not commissioned to act as judges for our fellowmen. Trouble is, so many of us are self-appointed judges or critics and of course our decisions or comments are infallible.

We refuse to give to the street musician, we cannot see the blue bonneted women who solicit aid on our streets, who daily humble themselves to help others, and if we do separate ourselves from a nickel we do it in such an ungracious way that the recipient is hurt and humiliated. Now this is no talk to bespeak sympathy for people who are dependent. The finest kind of aid is that which helps one to help themselves. It is independence not dependence that the average unfortunate is aiming for.

Of course some can say that promiscuous giving is well nigh the acme of foolishness. So it is. However there are exceptions to every rule. If we give a tiny bit kindly and with it a word of cheer, fellowship are we so very much poorer? The little story of Abon Ben Adam with its kindly little point is a story that will bear re-reading and considering in these days when everyone seems to be going "money-mad."

To forge ahead is alright, a divine discontent is a fine thing to have. However let us be quite certain that our discontent be of the kind that makes us all try to make each day a wee bit better than the one that's gone before.

Charity is the greatest of all virtues and helps him who gives as much as he who receives.

We take into eternity the record of our kindly deeds. Will we have a lengthy record? Will we be mourned and remembered as a person of charitable impulse and actions or will we go to our grave with the record of one who was always too eager, too grasping, too busy chasing a dollar to have any time to devote to helping our fellowmen?

To hustle for the things of this world is alright. It's commendable. However, it is well to keep in mind that the insatiable yearning that lies deep planted in the hearts of us all simply spells eternity.

SIDEWALK
SKETCHES

THE CAVITY.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

The cavity is a small subterranean entrance to the teeth which sometimes found first by the dentist and sometimes by the light, springing step of the toothache. The dentist sees it before the toothache does, he will change it from a cavity in to a cavern, in order to have plenty of elbow room for himself and his assistant.

This is one of the most painful and expensive transformations in all the realms of science.

Cavities are caused by an insidious microbe which the dentist sometimes finds in the teeth. It is there and at times can be felt with perfect distinctness. Some people try to fight it away by the vigorous use of tooth silk and tooth paste, only to have it slide around and settle down on a wisdom tooth located just under the left ear.

Cavities are usually constructed on the floor plan of the dental Cavity and never stop until the dentist runs out of leaf gold. It is a fascinating experience to have a keen-eyed dentist discover a cavity the size of a pea and follow its rambling footprints with an unsympathetic drill until he finds plenty of room to accommodate $36 worth of hammered gold. Some cavities being under this treatment, they will hold a month's salary without crowding. Many a patient has sat down in a dental chair accompanied by a set of white, robust teeth, merely for the purpose of having them polished, and rose up four hours later to face a battery of bright gold fillings and the premonitory symptoms of bankruptcy.

Some of the more aggressive cavities lead directly into a blood-curdling apartment known as the nerve cell, which makes the chamber of horrors of the Spanish inquisition look like a Y. W. C. A. rest room. Very few people are able to take a cut nap while this apartment is being swept out unless they have been previously introduced to the intoxicating beverage known as laughing gas.

WEST CENTER

West Center, July 14.—Last night we had the worst thunder storm for years. The sky was almost continually ablaze with lightning for about an hour and the thunder made doors and windows and even dishes rattle. About five inches of rain fell. No damage has been reported in this locality. Numerous telephone poles were blown down and shingles blown off barns.

The worst storm that was ever known in this section of the county passed over here last Tuesday afternoon. Some of the hail stones were over four inches in circumference, but the hail did not do much damage here as in other places. While the wind did some damage on nearly every farm, since were blown down on the farms of Mrs. Sophie Albrecht, Ernest Balis and B. W. Snyder; windmills were blown down on the farms of W. Thompson, W. O. Howell, Joe Busch and O. A. Brown; tobacco sheds were blown down on the farms of John May, Wm. H. Kott, Mrs. Stapleton, Mrs. Wunstrack, August Bretzke and Mrs. Rowald. Henry Long's new hen-house and Ernest Berryman's nearly new corn crib are a total wreck. Many fruit trees were broken in the Wm. H. Kott shed. William Harnack, the tenant had his grain bincher badly damaged and some damage to other machinery. In that shed, Mrs. Harnack shed Horace Frazer, the tenant had a top buggy badly smashed. About three inches of rain fell in about half an hour. The Footville Telephone Co. has about 250 phones outside of the village and about 25 of these were in working order. The roads were so blocked with fallen trees that they were impassable in some places. Many small chickens were killed by the rain and hail. The heaviest loser was Mrs. Minnie Harnack, who lost about 100.

Farnsworth and Miss Nettie, Mrs. Boyle and son, Clyde Apelin, Leonard Hollinger and Miss Ida Gehlke went to the lake Wednesday and had the time of their life. Roy Farnsworth took twenty-two of the number in a hay rack and the trip to and from the lake was enjoyed as much as any part of the day's sport. The day was an ideal one for such an outing as we got just rain enough from Tuesday's storm to lay the dust and cool the air. At noon the ladies feasted the good victors by the lake for the ladies for the occasion they had enough left to feed as many more so they remained at the lake and had supper before returning.

ENTIRE SCALP

R. F. D. No. 2, Sunfield, Mich. — "I was troubled with eczema. It began with a sore on the top of the scalp, broke out as a pimple and grew larger until it was a large red spot with a crust or scab over it. This became larger finally covering the entire scalp and spread to different parts of the body, the limbs and back and in the ears. The itching was so bad that I gradually until some were as large as a quarter of a dollar. They would itch and if scratched they would bleed and smart. The clothing would irritate them at night when it was being removed causing them to itch and smart so I could not sleep. A watery fluid would run from them. My scalp became covered with a scab and the hair was raised up it would raise this scab; the hair was coming out, terribly. My scalp and body itched all the time.

"After using Cuticura Soap and Ointment with two applications we could notice a great difference. My way of using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment was to apply the Ointment to the sores and all over the scalp, then after I would wash the sores and scalp with the soap. In a month's time I was completely cured. (Signed) Mrs. Bertha Underwood, Jan. 8, 1913.

THE SECRET OF LONESOME COVE

BY
SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS
Author of
AVERAGE JONES, ETC.

But the house was dead. Its eyes were closed. Silence held it. The garden buzzed and flickered with vivid multicolored life; but there was no stir from the habitation of man. Had its occupants deserted it? Chester Kent, leaning against the headstone of Captain Hogg of damnable memory, pondered and wondered.

From the far side of the mansion came the sound of a door opening and closing again. Moving quickly along the sumac-fringed course of the creek, Kent made a detour which gave him view of a side entrance, and had barely time to efface himself in the shrubbery when a figure emerged, with a spirited horse between the shafts, turned briskly out into the road. Kent, well sheltered, caught one brief sufficient glimpse of the occupant. It was Doctor Breed. The medical officer looked, as always, nerveless; but there was a greedy smile on his lips.

Kent's mouth puckered. He took a deep breath of musical inspiration—and exhaled it in painful silence. He was flattered himself amid the greenery as he saw a man emerge from the rear of Hedgerow House. The man was Gansett Jim. He carried a pick and a spade and walked slowly. Presently he disappeared in the willow shaded place of mounds. The sound of his foot came, muffled, to the ears of the hidden man.

Cautiously Kent worked his way, now in the stream, now through the heavy growth on the banks, until he gained the roadway. Once there he went forward to the front gate of Hedgerow House. The brick side-walk runs, thence, straight and true to the road-bordered square porch which is the mansion's main entry. Kent paused for the merest moment. His gaze rested on the heavy black door. Heavier and blacker against the woodwork, a pendant waved languidly in the faint breeze.

CHAPTER XIII
Loose Ends.

Meditation furrowed the brow of Lawyer Adam Bain. Customarily an easy-going participant in the placid affairs of his community, he had been shaken out of his rut by the case in which Kent had enlisted him, and in which he had, thus far, found opportunity for little more than a sign of life.

"Nobility," Sedgwick grumbled. "Public opinion vs. Sedgwick," he amended. "How's a self-respecting lawyer going to earn a fee out of that?" Len Schlager, standing over the grave of the dead, looked at him with a frown. "You can't speak in his hand. For that matter, this Professor Kent worries me more than the sheriff."

A sharp humming rose in the air, and brought the idle counselor to his window, whence he beheld the prime author of his bewilderment descending from a car. A minute later the two men were sitting with their feet on one desk, and a faint sign of mutual respect and confidence.

"Blair?" said Lawyer Bain. "No, I don't know him, not even to see. Took Hogg's Haven, didn't he?"

"Then he doesn't use this post-office."

"No. Might use any one of half a dozen. See here? He drew a county map from a shelf. "Here's the place. Seven railroad stations on three different roads, within ten miles of it. Anakala would be way out of his reach."

"Yet Gansett Jim seems to be 'unknown here.'"

"Oh, is it Blair that the Indian works for? I never knew. Closer to a deaf mute with lockjaw, he is. Well, I expect the reason he comes here occasionally is that it's the nearest license town."

"Let the poor Injun when he wants a drink."

"Will walk ten miles as easy as you'd wink."

"Do you know most of the post-offices around here?"

"There isn't a postmaster within twenty miles that I don't call by his first name, and she's a post-mistress."

"Then you could probably find out by telephone where the Blair family get their mail."

"Easy!"

"And perhaps what 'newspapers' they take?"

"H'm. Yes, I guess so."

"Try it, as soon as you get back."

"Back from where?"

"Back from the medical officer's place. I think he must have returned by this time."

"You want to see Tim Breed?"

"No; just his records. Burial permits, I suppose, are a matter of public record."

"Yes. All you've got to do is to go and ask for 'em. You won't need me."

"Regrettable as his bad taste is," said Kent with a solemn face, "I fear that Doctor Breed don't regard me with that confidence and esteem which one reads of in illuminated resolutions."

"And you want me as an accelerator, eh?" smiled the lawyer. "All right. It's the Jane Doe permit you're after, I suppose."

"Of course! Of course!" assented Kent.

"If you're looking for anything queer in the official paper you won't find it."

"You've examined it yourself?"

"Yes."

"Good! Nevertheless, I'd like to see the record."

"Together they went to the medical officer's quarters. Doctor Breed had come in fifteen minutes before. Without preliminary, Lawyer Bain said: "I want to see that Jane Doe certificate again."

"Aren't you afraid of wearin' out the ink on it, Adam?" retorted the other with a furtive grin.

"And I," said Chester Kent in his sunniest manner, "venture to trouble you to show me the certificate in the case of Wilfrid Blair."

"Something like a spasm shook the linements of Doctor Breed's meager face," Blair retorted. "How did you know that Wilfrid Blair is dead?" Kent finished for him. "Why, there has been time enough, hasn't there?"

"The physician's hands clawed nervously at his straggling hair."

"Time enough," he murmured. "Time enough? I'm only just back from the Blair place myself."

"The medical officer looked, as always, nerveless; but there was a greedy smile on his lips."

Len Schlager, standing over the grave of the dead, looked at him with a frown. "You can't speak in his hand. For that matter, this Professor Kent worries me more than the sheriff."

A sharp humming rose in the air, and brought the idle counselor to his window, whence he beheld the prime author of his bewilderment descending from a car. A minute later the two men were sitting with their feet on one desk, and a faint sign of mutual respect and confidence.

"Blair?" said Lawyer Bain. "No, I don't know him, not even to see. Took Hogg's Haven, didn't he?"

"Then he doesn't use this post-office."

"No. Might use any one of half a dozen. See here? He drew a county map from a shelf. "Here's the place. Seven railroad stations on three different roads, within ten miles of it. Anakala would be way out of his reach."

"Yet Gansett Jim seems to be 'unknown here.'"

"Oh, is it Blair that the Indian works for? I never knew. Closer to a deaf mute with lockjaw, he is. Well, I expect the reason he comes here occasionally is that it's the nearest license town."

"Let the poor Injun when he wants a drink."

"Will walk ten miles as easy as you'd wink."

"Do you know most of the post-offices around here?"

"There isn't a postmaster within twenty miles that I don't call by his first name, and she's a post-mistress."

"Then you could probably find out by telephone where the Blair family get their mail."

"Easy!"

"And perhaps what 'newspapers' they take?"

"H'm. Yes, I guess so."

"Try it, as soon as you get back."

"Back from where?"

"Back from the medical officer's place. I think he must have returned by this time."

"You want to see Tim Breed?"

"No; just his records. Burial permits, I suppose, are a matter of public record."

"Yes. All you've got to do is to go and ask for 'em. You won't need me."

"Regrettable as his bad taste is," said Kent with a solemn face, "I fear that Doctor Breed don't regard me with that confidence and esteem which one reads of in illuminated resolutions."

"And you want me as an accelerator, eh?" smiled the lawyer. "All right. It's the Jane Doe permit you're after, I suppose."

"Of course! Of course!" assented Kent.

"If you're looking for anything queer in the official paper you won't find it."

"You've examined it yourself?"

"Yes."

"Good! Nevertheless, I'd like to see the record."

"Together they went to the medical officer's quarters. Doctor Breed had come in fifteen minutes before. Without preliminary, Lawyer Bain said: "I want to see that Jane Doe certificate again."

"Aren't you afraid of wearin' out the ink on it, Adam?" retorted the other with a furtive grin.

"And I," said Chester Kent in his sunniest manner, "venture to trouble you to show me the certificate in the case of Wilfrid Blair."

"Something like a spasm shook the linements of Doctor Breed's meager face," Blair retorted. "How did you know that Wilfrid Blair is dead?" Kent finished for him. "Why, there has been time enough, hasn't there?"

"The physician's hands clawed nervously at his straggling hair."

"Time enough," he murmured. "Time enough? I'm only just back from the Blair place myself."

"The medical officer looked, as always, nerveless; but there was a greedy smile on his lips."

"Kent's mouth puckered. He took a deep breath of musical inspiration—and exhaled it in painful silence. He was flattered himself amid the greenery as he saw a man emerge from the rear of Hedgerow House. The man was Gansett Jim. He carried a pick and a spade and walked slowly. Presently he disappeared in the willow shaded place of mounds. The sound of his foot came, muffled, to the ears of the hidden man."

Cautiously Kent worked his way, now in the stream, now through the heavy growth on the banks, until he gained the roadway. Once there he went forward to the front gate of Hedgerow House. The brick side-walk runs, thence, straight and true to the road-bordered square porch which is the mansion's main entry. Kent paused for the merest moment. His gaze rested on the heavy black door. Heavier and blacker against the woodwork, a pendant waved languidly in the faint breeze.

CHAPTER XIII
Loose Ends.

Meditation furrowed the brow of Lawyer Adam Bain. Customarily an easy-going participant in the placid affairs of his community, he had been shaken out of his rut by the case in which Kent had enlisted him, and in which he had, thus far, found opportunity for little more than a sign of life.

"Nobility," Sedgwick grumbled. "Public opinion vs. Sedgwick," he amended. "How's a self-respecting lawyer going to earn a fee out of that?" Len Schlager, standing over the grave of the dead, looked at him with a frown. "You can't speak in his hand. For that matter, this Professor Kent worries me more than the sheriff."

A sharp humming rose in the air, and brought the idle counselor to his window, whence he beheld the prime author of his bewilderment descending from a car. A minute later the two men were sitting with their feet on one desk, and a faint sign of mutual respect and confidence.
